AUTO RUNS AWAY DOWN HILL; OWNER GOES TO HOSPITAL

Mr. Herbert Hawkins' and Young Lady Have Narrow Escape.

Wrong Thing Done at Critical Moment.

AND MACHINE IS OBEDIENT.

As a result of his first runabout plunging into a 10-foot ditch seven miles out on the Mayfield road at 6 o'clock Sunday evening, Mr. Herbert Hawkins is confined at Riverside hospital with one of the bones in his right ankle fractured and slight bruises over the body. A young lady, an occupant of the machine, was thrown into the ditch, but she escaped unhurt. She and Mr. Hawkins were brought to the city in Mr. Richard Rudy's auto after Dr. Frank Boyd had given temporary relief, and Mr. Hawkins was taken to the hospital, where his ankle was found to be fractured.

They had been to the home of Mr. Munier, which is on the hill 100 yards to the left of the Mayfield road. After a short visit there they started for the city and at the intersection of the Mayfield and Munier roads a rear wheel of the machine went over the side of the narrow bridge and the engine stopped. Mr. Hawkins jumped out and succeeded in pushing the machine on the main road, which is a steep grade down-hill. As he did the machine started rolling down the hill and Mr. Hawkins shouted for the young lady to put on the brake. Instead, she applied the high clutch and the auto began descending the hill rapidly. Mr. Hawkins pursued, trying to get to the steering wheel to avert going into the ditch and ran on the right hand side of the machine. The machine plunged over the side of the road, throwing the young lady out. She alighted on her hands and was uninjured. Mr. Hawkins was not caught by the machine, but is supposed to have wrenched his ankle in falling into the ditch.

Mr. Richard Rudy was telephoned and took Dr. Boyd to the scene and they were hurried back to the city. The machine was not badly damaged and was towed back to a garage for repairs this morning.

Little Cypress, Ky., March 28. (Special.)—Pitched from his horse while running a race, Alfred Hunter, 18 years old, fell on his head and suffered a severe concussion of the brain. While going at top speed Hunter's horse shied and pitched the rider off. Hunter struck on his head and was unconscious until Sunday morning. Dr. E. R. Goodloe attended him.

Eight Sailors Killed on Cruiser Charleston Sunday by Premature Discharge of One of Big Guns

Were Loading it Rapidly and Shell Exploded Before
Breech-Block Was Fastened in Place.

Washington, March 28.—Eight men were killed on the cruiser Charleston yesterday by the blowing out of the breech plug of a three-inch gun. The official report was made by Admiral Hubbard. A court of inquiry was appointed by the commander-in-chief to investigate.

The men killed on board battle ship, at Olongapo, P. I. Their deaths were caused by a premature explosion. The supposition is it was caused by a pin not drawn back when the breech plug was withdrawn. It was fired hastily as in the case of target practice. A new shell was thrown into place forcibly and discharged itself before the screw blocks were in place, throwing the plug backwards from the breech of the gun.

The men killed were Philip J. McKee, Walter Amsted, Henry A. Heaton, Leo Rennele, Harry Reaves, A. Graham, Ralph Berkman, Maxie Harward and Edward A. Molin.

Dancers Killed.
Mato Szalka, Hungary, March 28.—Two hundred and fifty are reported killed by fire which destroyed the village inn while a dance was on. The roof fell in, burying the crowd. Huge piles of bodies, burned and unrecognizable, were taken from the ruins.

Loses His Little Finger.
The little finger on the right hand of Howard Butler, an employee of the St. Bernard Coal company's tipple in Mechanicsburg, was amputated today by Dr. J. S. Troutman and Dr. J. D. Pendley. Butler was injured while unloading a car of coal.

Still After Hat Pins.

INSTITUTIONS IN MANY PLACES.

Oliver Hill, Ky., March 28. (Special.)—W. J. Rice, cashier of the Imperial bank here, was indicted for embezzlement and the bank was placed in the hands of a receiver. Rice is missing. He had founded banks in a number of eastern Kentucky towns. He is also indicted in Mississippi.

Roosevelt Defies Egyptians' Threats

Calro, March 28.—Colonel Roosevelt disregarded warnings in his speeches yesterday at the University of Egypt. He denounced the assassins of Boutros Pasha and declared himself for law enforcement. His speech was applauded and complimented by teachers when he said the school should teach engineering and farming. He appealed for religious toleration between the Christians and Moslems. After the address the honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred on him.

He had luncheon with Dr. Watson and at 3 o'clock he visited the deputed American girls' mission. Twenty gunbearers he thought he had left far behind on the Nile visited him and told the colonel they couldn't resist seeing him once more. A delegation from the National Geographic society called and expressed their appreciation of his services to science. Tonight the Roosevelts will attend

CAPTAIN FARLEY TAKES GOVERNOR WILLSON'S PART

Says Chief Executive Should Not Be Criticized for Doing Duty.

Had Right to Veto Bank Examiner Bill.

SAYS HARMONY DOES EXIST.

In an interview today Captain Ed. Farley, state treasurer, emphatically denies the charge that there is discord among the departments at Frankfort, and takes Governor Willson's side in regard to his veto of the state bank examiner bill. He characterizes Secretary of State Bruner's accusation against Governor Willson as impulsive and ill-considered, and says Governor Willson favors a state bank examiner, but found in the bill defects which would be fatal to good results.

"All the talk about the administration at Frankfort being divided is folly," remarked Capt. Ed. Farley, who returned to Frankfort today, after spending Sunday with his family in this city. "It is not divided. I am sorry that Secretary of State Bruner made the statement he did about the governor's veto of the bank examiner bill. The administration is with the governor in that matter. Nobody realizes more than I do the benefit of having a state bank examiner; but the governor in scanning the bill, providing for one, found defects, which he considered fatal to the beneficial results of a system of examination, and exercising his prerogative, he vetoed the measure. He did right, and I think he is not deserving of censure from any citizen for doing that which he considered right, much less from a member of the administration itself."

"I esteem Mr. Bruner highly and he is making an excellent official; but in this case I think he acted impulsively and inadvertently. While Kentucky needs a bank examiner, and I believe the governor thinks so, that fact alone would not justify the governor in signing a measure he considered bad. Were there any discord at Frankfort this incident would reveal the whole situation; but the solitary flash emphasizes the harmony among the state departments."

Police don't believe Elizabeth Mueller is connected with the crime, although they are holding her. It is said Ruth had been at the flat. This is damaging to Walter, who insists he never saw her before.

Walter, who is charged with the murder of Ruth Wheeler, 15 years old, still defies the police from his cell. He declares his ignorance of the murder. Police are trying to prove Walter is the head of the white slave traffic. They found a note book containing the names of scores of girls. They will investigate the names to find if they are victims.

Ruth Wheeler went to Walter's flat to answer a note, inviting her to accept a position as stenographer. She was graduated from a business college and her name was secured there. As she didn't return home police were notified and they called at the address in search of the girl. Her charred body was found partially stuffed up the chimney of a fire place. Oil had been poured on the body before it was set afire.

Ruth was a large girl and probably defended herself against the attacks of Walters until he choked her.

MISS HATTIE SETTLE IS GIVEN FINE PROMOTION.

Miss Hattie Settle, who has been teaching in Draughton's Business College here for a year, has accepted the principalship of the school at San Antonio, Texas, the largest of the 31 in the system. Miss Settle will take a vacation before going, as she has been engaged constantly in the work for four years, having taught at Oklahoma City and Springfield, Mo.

Attorney W. M. Oliver left yesterday for Decatur, Ill., on business.

SEVEN HUNDRED ENTER EASTER DAY EGG HUNT

The egg hunt at Wallace park yesterday was enjoyed by about seven hundred children and many of the older folks were out to watch the little ones scramble after the eggs. The anxious children could not wait until the specified time, but broke the ropes and got after the eggs at 2:45 instead of 3:30. The gold egg, with a prize of $3, was found by Master Max Brown, of 603 North Sixth street. The $2 silver egg was found by Master Harry Smith, 1909 Clark street. The bronze egg, for which a prize of $1 was offered, was found by little Miss Lena Utterback, of Arcadia.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 people, including grown-ups and children, flocked to Wallace park yesterday afternoon. Max Brown found the gold egg after a twenty minutes' search. It took Harry Smith one hour to locate the silver egg. The bronze egg was pulled from its hiding place by little Lena Utterback, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Utterback after an hour and a half of work. Approximately 4,000 colored eggs were hidden over the park ground yesterday morning.

Asks For an Appropriation.

Washington, March 28. (Special.)—The nomination of Maurice H. Thatcher, of Kentucky, present state examiner of accounts, to be a member of the isthmian canal commission, vice ex-Senator Joe Blackburn, of Kentucky, was sent to the senate by the president today.

Mr. Thatcher was a candidate for district attorney for the western district of Kentucky, on which position J. C. Speight, of Mayfield, seems to have a claim.

Today's message refers to the successful conclusion of negotiations with foreign countries under the minimum-maximum clause of the Payne law.

Taft Railroad Bill.
Washington, March 28.—The amendment of Representative Townsend, of Michigan, to assume charge of the administration railroad bill on the floor of the house will not be gratified, the honor going to Chairman Mann, of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. This fact developed today and supporters of the bill, in the form in which it was originally introduced by Representative Townsend and is now pending in the senate, are greatly disappointed.

It had been thought the intense opposition to Mr. Mann to certain

FOLIAGE BOWERS HIDE CHANCELS AND ALTAR RAILS

Easter Sunday Celebrated in Unusually Elaborate Manner.

Knights Templar Observe Ritual of Order.

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC OFFERED.

Bowers of blossoms and foliage hid the pulpits, altars and chancels of the Paducah churches yesterday, and all the singers of the city were engaged in anthems of praise in honor of Easter day. Probably no former Easter found so elaborate programs and decorations, partly due to the revival of interest in some of the churches, which have heretofore been without pastors.

The Knights Templar celebrated Easter by attending services at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning. The first few rows of the middle section were reserved for the Knights under Commander C. O. Brown, and they went through their special service of responsive reading and prayer before the sermon was preached. A collection was taken up by the wardens of the commandery and $108 was collected, which was given as the Easter offering of the church to the Presbyterian Orphanage at Anchorage. The Young Ladies' society added $50 and the Sunday school $17.48.

During the morning service the choir sang Stainer's anthem, "Fling Wide the Gates," with incidental solo by Miss Sarah Rodgers. Mr. Robert Scott, basso, sang a solo.

Dr. H. W. Burwell took as his text Corinthians xv, 14, "And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain."

The whole doctrine of Christianity, he said, hinges on the fact of the resurrection. He pictured the Sunday morning near Jerusalem when Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went forth to the tomb of their Lord and the episode in the garden when they met Christ himself and were assured that he was risen. He told of the care taken to seal and guard the tomb, because of Christ's own prophecy that he would rise, and the providential irony, which turned the efforts of the Romans to prevent the resurrection into the circumstantial evidence of its truth. The resurrection of Christ, said Dr. Burwell, means nothing to a man, until his life is touched and changed by Christ. He appealed to the Knights to hold their standards high and adopt the principles of the order into their everyday lives.

There was one addition to the church.

Members of the Princeton commandery of the Knights Templar attended the service yesterday morning. They returned to their home yesterday afternoon and were pleased with the sermon. The Princeton commandery was organized only recently, but the members are enthusiastic. The members of the party were: L. E. McCabe, J. E. Baker, D. B. Osborne, F. E. Shattuck, W. D. Noel, A. S. Noel, E. Young, Captain T. H. B. Haase, I. B. Tanner, Guy Dunning, J. B. Thomas, L. G. Cox, C. C. Johnson, of Princeton; W. A. Sexton, of Kuttawa, and I. Bailey, of Madisonville.

At night a song service was held, interspersed with scripture reading. Besides anthems by the choir, Mr. Richard Scott and Miss Anne Bradshaw sang solos, Miss Bradshaw and Mr. Slavia Mall sang a duet, Mr. Mall and Mr. Emmett Bagby sang a duet and a quartet composed of Mrs. Mockett, Mrs. Hart, Mr. Mall and Mr. Bagby sang "He is Risen."

Holy Name Rally.

The grand rally of the Holy Name society of the St. Francis de Sales Catholic church was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock and was the most impressive ceremony since the dedication of the church. Forty new members were received. Mr. John T. Donovan has been appointed delegate from this church to attend the coronation of the new bishop, and he and the Rev. Father Connelly left this morning to be present. The men of the diocese have taken upon themselves the furnishing of the bishop's residence at Louisville. Mr. Michael Williams, Mr. John T. Donovan, Mr. Joseph Gockel, Mr. Joseph Arts, Mr. P. M. Fisher, Mr. John Doherty and Mr. Con Ward have been appointed a committee to collect funds from this congregation.

German Churches.

Yesterday was one of the largest days in point of attendance that has been held at the German Lutheran church this year, the church being packed at both services. Mr. A. Low

BOYS PLAY

SET GRASS AFIRE AND TURN IN ALARM.

Fire Department Kept Busy Sunday
With Some Serious
Blazes.

Easter Sunday was celebrated by the firemen by fighting flames as yesterday four alarms were answered. The first fire was the fire at the Laveau boarding house on North Fourth street, at 1:15 o'clock, but the fire was small. At 5 o'clock fire was discovered in the rear of the saloon of James Bulger on Meyer street just north of the Island creek bridge.

The fire started in the rear, and spread to the attic, and before the flames were quenched the entire roof was destroyed, making the loss about $300. The stock of liquors was not damaged seriously. Money that had been taken in Saturday night was gotten out of the burning building. Hose companies, Nos. 2 and 4, and truck company, No. 4, answered the alarm.

The third fire was at the grocery of Mann Clark, Seventh and Campbell streets. The cause of the fire is unknown, and when the flames were discovered Mr. Clark was sitting in the front of the grocery. The fire shut him off from his telephones, and he had to run considerable distance to give the alarm. Hose company, No. 3, and truck company, No. 4, responded to the alarm, and extinguished the fire with a loss of about $500. The building was not burned badly, but the stock of groceries was damaged by smoke. Mr. Clark is a member of the board of fire and police commissioners.

The last fire was a grass fire at Nineteenth and Jefferson streets, and the horses to the No. 3 hose wagon and the No. 4 truck were given a long unnecessary run. Chief Wood has learned that some boys have been setting dry grass on fire and then turning in the alarm, solely for the amusement of seeing the horses run. It is a violation of a city ordinance with a fine of $25 fixed for each violation. Chief Wood is determined to break up the practice by swearing out a few warrants against guilty persons.

When dry grass is on fire it is unnecessary to send more than one wagon, and if the nature of the fire is known the firemen will not exert the horses to reach a harmless blaze.

PLACE INTERURBAN BONDS.

Success For Road From Rogers to Decatur Via Bentonville.

Rogers, Ark., March 28.—The committee appointed to handle the placing of $100,000 interurban bond issue are highly pleased with the result this far. They have succeeded in placing $23,800 of the bonds and expect to place $30,000 this week, this being the amount required for Rogers to subscribe. Bentonville has placed bonds to the amount of $50,000, and Decatur has taken bonds to the amount of $15,000. This only leaves about $12,000 yet to be placed. The committee has every reason to be encouraged, and it now looks as if the interurban road from Rogers to Decatur via Bentonville will be built without a doubt.

RESCUED FROM WHITE SLAVERY

IRVING MASTER OFTEN SLASHED HER WITH DAGGER.

Catherine Moore Inhumanly Forced to Support Her Captors—Tied With Rope at Times.

BOSTON GIRL IS TERRORIZED

New York, March 28.—Locked in the back room of a small apartment on the ground floor of the tenement house at No. 225 Jackson street, Hohenock detectives found an 18-year-old girl imprisoned yesterday morning. She declared in court that she had been lured from her home in Boston by the man and woman who were in charge of the place and that they had held her captive for two months.

The girl, Catherine Moore, of No. 1253 Laborno street, Boston, bore the scar of a razor cut on her left cheek and declared that Anthony Roman, alias Belli, had inflicted the wound. She also said that Belli, as the man is known in Hohenock, had often thrust the point of a dagger into her limbs to compel her to do as he directed.

The girl said she had been tied with a rope at times. A rope lay on the floor near where the girl was found.

Detective Joseph Cornell obtained the information which led to the raid on the apartment. Belli and the woman kept a small candy store in the front room of the apartment, but the police say their real business was carried on in the rear rooms, where Catherine Moore, the "white slave," was found. Cornell had a talk with Belli, which convinced him, he says, that the girl was held against her will. The raid, under Chief Hales, followed.

Belli and his wife opposed the police, but Cornell subdued them by drawing his revolver. The girl could not be found in the front room, but on pushing through to the rear Cornell came upon a locked door. He quickly battered it down. Trembling in a corner crouched Catherine Moore, fearful, she said later, that Belli was coming in to either torture or kill her.

Overjoyed at Rescue.

The girl was so overjoyed when she learned that the police had rescued her that she kissed Cornell's hands and then sank to her knees and offered a prayer of gratitude. Every time Belli came near the girl she shrank from him and implored the policemen not to let Belli injure her. Even in the court room she could not tell her story when the eyes of Belli were upon her.

It was a pitiful narrative, indeed, that the girl related when she was made a witness against Belli and his wife in Recorder McGovern's court. The girl had aged greatly under her treatment.

"I lived with relatives in Boston," she said. "Belli and this woman—she is not his wife—came to live next door and made my acquaintance. They were nice to me and I learned to like them. By promises of securing me good employment they got me away from home. Then began my life of misery.

"Belli turned to be a brute. My clothes were taken from me, and I was put in a disorderly house. I could not escape because I had no clothes. Once, when I tried to get away, Belli caught me. He held me by the throat and drew a razor across my face. I think he tried to kill me. This scar, stretching from ear to mouth, is the result of that razor cut.

"I cried in great deal and many times refused to do Belli's bidding, but he was so cruel that I feared him. He would use the point of a dagger to stab me in the legs and arms when I rebelled. If there was anyone present he would jab the dagger into me from behind, so they could not see his action.

"All of the money I made I had to give to Belli or this woman."
Recorder McGovern held Belli and the woman in $2,000 bail each for trial and the girl in $1,000 bail as a witness. The charges against Belli and his wife are that they "conducted a disorderly house and operated in the white slave traffic."

Two Young Ladies Drown.

Hillsboro, N. H., March 28.—A motor boat, rendered unmanageable by the disengagement of the machinery, was swept over the dam of the upper mill pond here today, hurling two young women, Mrs. Nellie Dares and Miss Mildred Craig, to their death. Wm. H. Parker, local agent for the Standard Oil company, who was in charge of the boat, escaped. He was thrown into shallow water, from which he was able to crawl ashore.

BICYCLE THIEVES

ARE GIVING THE POLICE GREAT DEAL OF TROUBLE.

Many Petty Thefts Following Pleasant Out Door Weather Reported.

Boldness of thieves seems to be increasing with the temperature and the police are making every effort to bring robberies over the city to a halt. Bicycles have been stolen in the last week and Chief of Police Slagery has given his men instructions to keep a vigilant watch for these thieves especially. They are supposed to be boys, and in many instances wheels are stolen and left a great distance from the owners' homes. Rarely are they returned, although this happens occasionally. Today George W. Lee, Clarence LeRoy, Arthur Jolly and John Green reported their wheels missing. These are only a few of the victims of the past two weeks. Prosecutions will be made if there are any arrests, and the thieves will be dealt with severely.

A hold robbery was reported to the police by Frank Hovecamp, who purchased a suit of clothes from a Broadway store Saturday night. He placed it in the rear of his buggy, and driving two blocks away, left his buggy for ten minutes. When he returned the clothes were missing.

$200,000 FIRE AT WELSH.

Thirty Buildings Are Destroyed in Louisiana Town.

Welsh, La., March 28.—Practically the business section of Welsh was wiped out by fire early today. Thirty buildings were destroyed, entailing a loss of $200,000, with little insurance. The fire originated through some unknown cause in the Signal Hotel, and quickly spread to other adjacent frame buildings. The town is without water works and the efforts of citizens to check the flames proved futile. Among the buildings destroyed were the Signal Hotel, Eureka Hotel and postoffice.

Washington, March 28.—After an expression of appreciation of the government of Panama for the good offices of the United States in obtaining an agreement between Costa Rica and Panama for the settlement of the boundary dispute between those countries, Dr. Bellario Porras, of Panama, today answered a luncheon to Secretary Knox and other officials of the state department, Minister Arcemena, of Panama, and Minister Calvo, of Costa Rica, were among the guests.

Appropriate toasts were drunk and complimentary speeches were made.

News of Theatres

"The Traveling Salesman," by James Forbes, the author of "The Chorus Lady," which is the attraction at the Kentucky tonight, knows mankind, and he has worked in his play striking character types that have inspired a great deal of comment and analysis. Henry B. Harris has assembled an excellent cast, as each character is a distinct type. In the company are Austin Weh, Rosalind Coghlan, Florence Hackett, Dan Baker, Joseph Sullivan, Gideon Burton, Harriet Sheldon, Janet Hawkett, Albert Hackett, Jack L. Newton, George M. Devere, Scott Siggins, George Smithfield, John Von Statton and others.

Among the musical numbers introduced in the production of "The Cat and the Fiddle," at the Kentucky on Monday, April 4, will be found: "My Maid in the Moon," "Mother Goose's Baby-Dolls," "Teddy in the Jungle," "Rosa Dreams," "The Date Tree," "You've Never Been Intro-

The announcement that "Annie Abbott" will return to the Star and play this week a return engagement will no doubt be a welcome news item. Many who did not see her when she was here before will flock to the Star to see her this time. Mr. Arthur Leo, who is one of the best dancers on the stage today, will be seen at the Star for the first time Monday afternoon. He is some dancer and introduces four distinct styles of dancing.

QUAKER'S CURES CONTINUE TO MANIFEST THEMSELVES IN A STARTLING MANNER

PROMINENT RAILROADER TELLS WHAT QUAKER HAS DONE FOR HIM.

Mr. J. C. Cummings is an employe of the Illinois Central railroad shops in this city. For over five years he has been a sufferer from catarrh of the stomach. After eating or drinking he would almost invariably be seized with a bloating sensation and severe pains in the stomach. At times these distressing pains would become so bad that he found it necessary to quit work, and on several occasions he lost as much as two to three weeks from his work. During that time he used nearly every remedy he could find, and had some of the best attention, but never received more than a little temporary relief, following which his condition would become worse than before. He was certainly in a pitiable condition when he first called at McPherson's drug store, 425 Broadway. On the advice he purchased a treatment of Quaker Extract and Oil of Halm. He called to tell of the wonderful benefit he has received from the use of these famous remedies. He says: "A person would almost think there was something superhuman about your medicine. In my case, as I had used so many other things, I was honestly surprised at the marvelous quick results. I will admit that I was pretty skeptical, but if anybody now can show me the equal of the Quaker remedies, they will be doing more than I believe is possible. Tell anyone who doubts what they will do to call on me. I will tell them all just what I have told you, that I am certainly proud of the Quaker remedies."

Mr. Cummings lives at 800 Kentucky avenue, and will answer all questions pertaining to his case. If you suffer from catarrh, rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach or blood troubles, call at McPherson's drug store, 425 Broadway, and he will tell you how the Quaker Herb Extract will cure you in a few weeks. If you are so unfortunate as to be suffering with a tapeworm, call and receive a bottle of the remedy to prove that it will expell such parasites from the system.

BANKERS WILL TELL OF GRAFT

COURTS WILL QUESTION THEM CLOSELY ABOUT BRIBERY.

Discussed What Had Been Offered By Interested Parties for Legislation and What Should Be Charged.

DID THEY BUY CITY DEPOSITS?

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 28.—Un- easiness was shown in Pittsburgh on all sides in anticipation of developments in the graft cases, when directors of the big national banks which held the city's deposits will be called before the courts and asked on their oath to tell what they know about their banks buying the city deposits for cash from the city councilmen.

The graft investigation uncovered the fact that for some years the grafting members of Pittsburgh council, about 60 in number, met weekly in the parlors of a big downtown hotel and there, behind closed doors, discussed what had been offered by certain firms for the passage of certain ordinances, and what should be charged, etc. This weekly meeting was attended by all former members of council who are now in the toils.

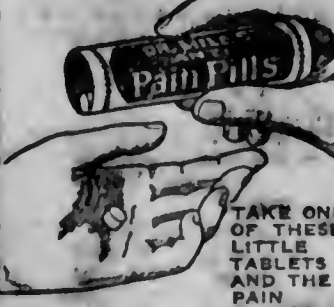

Councilman John Klein was secretary of the "caucus" and President William Brand of common council is its chairman. So bold were the movements of this party of councilmen that invitations were sent to the newspapers to have reporters wait on the officers of the "caucus" after adjournment, in order that "news of interest to the public" might be secured.

Publicity Was Threatened.

It is now believed by local newspapers that threatened publicity was frequently held over the heads of victims by the "caucus" in order that high priced bargains might be driven for real money considerations.

load of those big fellows to the penitentiary with us," was the bold jolst statement made by Bookkeeper Charles Veverka and Teller Harry Muehlbreuer, of the Workingmen's Savings and Trust company, some months ago when it became practically common knowledge that the bank with which they had been connected was short about $70,000.

That this pair knew something and did not intend to go to Riverside penitentiary without making a hard fight and taking some others along with them was shown when they were called for sentence in court and they gave the judge privately some reasons why they did not think they should be sent to Riverside penitentiary and the court suspended sentence in the case of both.

They Saved Themselves. Veverka and Muehlbreuer were arrested some time after they had made this open boast, but the claim is made they were not taken into custody until long after the directorate had been informed as to their shortcomings. Even then the arrests were not made at the instance of the bank directorate, but by a bonding company which had guaranteed the two employes.

Officials of the Workingmen's Savings Bank and Trust company, which is one of the six city depositories, deny that they hesitated on finding there was a shortage. However, the quiet statement made by the two convicted ex-employes was sufficient to keep them out of the penitentiary, and it is announced that they, too, will appear before the grand jury to-day or the day following and tell what they know about inside workings of the Workingmen's Savings bank and Trust company in connection with securing the city deposits.

That the Pennsylvania railroad was being beaten out of $500,000 per year by Pittsburgh councilmen alone through passes some years ago started the agitation which resulted later in laws against the issuance of transportation of railroads. The Pennsylvania made the claim that it was losing $5,000,000 per year throughout its system on the issuance of passes and one-tenth of this was charged up to Pittsburgh. It develops now that some of the grafting councilmen who are now in trouble made thousands of dollars yearly through the sale of passes.

Daily Thought.

Never lose your self-respect. Character is the foundation on which all good work is built.

We believe that fifty rough riders could do the business in Nicaragua.

Muskogee seems to be the next stop after Paducah for some people.

Did you pause to thank Providence for a nice day on which to wear your new clothes?

That must be a mistake about old folks at the county sanitarium not receiving the right kind of food. The county pays $3.50 a week board for them.

HOW ABOUT KENTUCKY?

The State Charities Aid society of New York has adopted for its war cry, "No Unearned For Tuberculosis by 1915." It is a good slogan. Its fulfillment would cost but little in comparison with the unmeasured and immeasurable benefits to the state of New York.

It would mean that within a few years, another generation or two at the most, there would be no tuberculosis among the millions of inhabitants of that imperial state. The example set by that state would lead to a diffusion of knowledge and improvement of conditions in other states that would preserve the health and save the lives of millions of human beings.

Even a partial fulfillment of the desire of the State Charities Aid society is worth striving for. The warfare waged in the campaign of education which has been carried on for the past few years, teaching that tuberculosis is a preventable, communicable, curable disease, has reduced the deaths from the "white scourge" in New York from 11 1/2 per cent of the whole to 9 1/2 per cent, and is saving every year an army of over twenty-five thousand people.

THE CANADIAN TARIFF.

Insurgency in congress, the investigation of the Ballinger charges and the return of Roosevelt are much more exciting topics than the treaty of peace with Canada; but if we are to judge this administration by events as they arise, it is not just to mention in passing, that while the insurgents have insurgured, and the Ballinger probe has probed, and Roosevelt gets nearer home, President Taft, still urbane and smiling, has neglected these incidents, that have occupied prominent places on the front pages for weeks, and personally conducted negotiations with Canada, which will result Wednesday in the announcement at Ottawa and Washington, that Uncle Sam and his northern neighbor are ready to enter into a trade compact, by which the United States will enjoy all the privileges of the most favorable nation in the exchange of commodities with Canada.

We have one tariff plan, with a maximum schedule for those countries which discriminate against American goods, and the minimum for those countries which let us in on the most favored terms. Canada has a general tariff rate, a special agreement with England and a special treaty arrangement with France.
The United States will be put on the same footing as France, it is understood.

For many years Canada has been threatening to retaliate against our tariff regulations and while the two countries are naturally complementary and the exchange of commodities is mutually beneficial, there has been constant friction and much consequent loss of advantage on both sides. When we weigh it in the balance, we must admit that the Canadian tariff treaty is of more general importance than the question of whether Joe Cannon or Victor Murdock shall have the lower house of congress; just as the conservation of our natural resources is more important than the question whether Richard Achilles Ballinger or Gifford Pinchot does the conserving. We are inclined to think the returning Mr. Roosevelt will regard the Canadian tariff triumph as a corroboration of his judgment in backing Taft for the presidency, and the insurgency and the Ballinger probe as incidents of factional politics.

We expect Mr. Taft to shine in the colonial and foreign relations most; for, as executive of the Philippines he learned much about our dependencies, and his trip around the world put him in personal touch with the situation everywhere, as regards our interests. That is shown by Mr. Knox's calling the head of Japan and Russia in Manchuria, where Japan is persistently discriminating against American goods shipped over the Japanese railroad; the purchase of bonds of the Chinese railroad by American financial institutions, and the proposal to finance a railroad through Manchuria in competition with the Japanese line.

Mr. Taft's vigorous internal policy, like Roosevelt's, has been showing up the weaknesses of the system, more than anything else, with a gradual improvement in itself, as prejudices are removed and central authority is extended. Critics of the federal system thought that our foreign policy would be weakened by the division of authority. We are finding that corruption in state governments and the "twilight zone" between the state and national governments, have made our internal policy a thing to be laughed at, while the strength of our foreign policy depends upon the size of the men in the executive department.

The reason our internal policies have been weak, is that they have affected individual citizens, and it is always hard politics to make enemies of political influences. On the other hand, influences have to a great extent decided the distribution of improvements and appropriations. However, this is the fault of congress, not the executive.

Before this term is out, we expect to see the congressional committee on postoffices and postroads inaugurate legislation, which will enable the administration to place the postoffice department on a better business basis; and we expect to see the Puget sound country reinvested with the undivided interest and attention of Richard Achilles Ballinger, at present secretary of the Interior, who, after receiving a liberal coating of whitewash, will be found to be more of a white elephant than ever in Washington.

After that no one will get a job in the interior department, who cannot pronounce shibboleth on the conservation question.

Some Stories Around the Town.

After a separation of 33 years, five aged brothers, one a Paducahan, met in Metropolis this morning and are celebrating their reunion there today. A strange coincidence of their meeting was that today is the anniversary of the birth of three of them, two being twins.

John C. Orr, of Paducah, 60 years old, went to Union station this morning where he met the Rev. B. F.
Orr, of Louisville, who is a Methodist preacher. Yesterday James C.
Orr, 65 years old, a Methodist preacher of Hickory Grove, Ky., and R. L. S. Orr, of Mayfield, a mechanic, contractor and builder, arrived in Paducah and greeted their brother, who lives here. This morning at 8 o'clock the four brothers boarded the steamer Dick Fowler and went to Metropolis, where they met the fifth brother, Dr. J. A. Orr, 65 years old, a prominent physician of that place. Their meeting was of sadness and happiness and tears came to their eyes as they looked upon each other the first time since 1877.

Today is the birthday of Dr. Orr, of Metropolis, and the Rev. James C.
Orr, of Hickory Grove. It is also the day of the birth of John Orr, of Paducah. They will return tomorrow and leave for their respective homes.

Odd Journalistic Coincidence

It is remarkable how the same simple incidents in the daily run of the news will strike the editorial fancy of widely separated newspapers about the same time, though the style of the editors may differ, and their political affiliations, environments, education and manner of thinking may be as various as it is possible to conceive. For instance John Duncan-Clark, editorial writer of the Louisville Herald is a Canadian, educated for the Presbyterian ministry and a graduate in medicine.
He writes for a Republican newspaper. Yet we find that, Friday morning he composed an editorial on the decision of a Denver judge, that is so remarkably like an editorial in Saturday morning's News-Democrat in thought and verbiage as to arouse our interest.

The Herald arrived in Paducah about half past four Saturday afternoon and the News-Democrat was published next morning, which relieves our friend Duncan-Clark from the charge of plagiarism. It is not often we enjoy the privilege of comparing the treatment of a non-political subject by a Republican and a Democratic paper.

The Herald said:
"Write home to your mother" sounds a little more human, more Christian and more sensible than "nasty days in jail." It was the sentence that Judge Galvia, of Denver, gave the other day to a youth who had taken a few steps in a vagrant. The judge made him a human being, with a chance for usefulness.

Few boys who keep in close touch with a mother's love go far astray.
The youth was but one of hundreds who leave the family fireside for the world's struggle. He, as have other boys before and will many others to come, forgot that gray-haired woman whose heart will always contain the vision of the prattling babe, of the cute tricks of his babyhood, of his first pair of pants, when she shed her silent tears because he was "growing up."

Instead of the memories of the bumble bee, with its rag carpet, its delicate covering for the table, its decent economies and above all its mother heart which filled it with love and turned it from a rude habitation to a real home, the boy found the bright lights, the clang of the mechanical piano, the rough comradeship of other and old men who had also forgotten their mothers.

He did as hundreds do. He didn't have time to write home.

If he thought at all of the lonely evenings in that humble home, with a woman remembering his young pranks and with a heart aching with a longing for some word, the thought was brushed aside by the fast growing appetite for these new city habits.

The young man that takes time to keep the close sympathy of the little boy with his mother, won't find time to get into trouble. Better than that, the very memory of her sacrifices and her love will protect him from going to more glittering and dangerous paths of occupying his time.

"Write to your mother" is about the wisest sentence we have heard from a criminal court for a long time.

It has its authority in a greater law than that which any legislature has ever framed—the law of love, which holds and protects when other human barriers against unwise conduct fail.

The News-Democrat says:
"This is a good time to drop politics and touch a note of human sympathy that will reach all humanity." We find in reading the daily accumulation of the world's news, an incident in Denver, over the contemplation of which we pause to reflect.

A youth who had wandered from the influences of home was arraigned before a Denver judge on the charge of vagrancy.

It was the judge's verdict that struck us as being something out of the ordinary.
He didn't sentence him to jail, or read him a stern lecture from the bar of justice.

He simply said, "Write home to your mother." That was all.

Sounds simple like in these days of stern realism, doesn't it?

But it was about the best advice we have heard from the bench for a long while, and if that boy will give it heed, this will be his last appearance in court as a prisoner.

The world is not crowded with boy criminals who have kept in touch with mothers, back home.

There is something about the strength of the influence wielded by the gray haired mother back there that keeps a boy straight in spite of himself.

It is often the case that when the boy leaves the old homestead, and takes up his abode in the fascinating glitter of the city's whirl, the vision of the mother and her tender influence vanishes, and the letters that at first were frequent, grow gradually less, and at last, quit entirely.

Then it is that he severs the last cord binding him to the better ways of life, and begins his journey along the devious path that leads at last to the place this boy found.

We are not a moralist, nor do we pretend to preach, but this simple incident has served to call to our mind a fact that is as old as the hills, and as lasting, and it is, that the mother is a boy's best friend.

This boy didn't have time to write home and as a result a mother waited in vain for a word from the wanderer. The boy was the greatest loser, after all.

"Write home to your mother," is about the wisest sentence we have heard coming from the bench for some time.

It doubtless touched a responsive chord in that boy's heart that a prison sentence could have never reached, for it was a sentence which based its sentiment on a love that is deeper than the sea, and wider than the universe.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Paducah Herald.
Clinton, Ky., March 26, 1910.
Paducah Sun.—Please allow me a word with reference to Good Friday 64 article in Sun of March 25, more for correcting a statement for the benefit of the younger generation.
You state the Confederates entered the Marine hospital about where the tobacco warehouse now stands at Fifth and Clay. Above statement is an error. The Marine hospital was burned down. Before the battle it stood inside of the fort; in other words, the fort was built around it.
Again at the place where the tobacco warehouse now stands some small frame cottages. The house entered by the Confederate sharpshooters and from which all the men killed or wounded in the fort was a large brick building owned by Dr. Best on the east side of Fourth street one block south from the fort. This house was burned during the night following the attack on the fort.
Again, Col. Thompson was not killed at Sixth and Trimble, but immediately at the intersection of the alley between Fifth and Sixth streets on Trimble. The statement of the upper part of his body being upright is correct. The entire body was in a heap except the part shot away. His right hand was picked up about 30 feet from the body in the alley. Wm.
Berry, a plasterer, was killed at the intersection of Fifth and Trimble. He was a citizen and the nearest person to the fort who was killed. Colonel Crossland was not wounded in the leg, but in the heel, the bullet striking his spur. The bullet bent the spur into the fleshy part of the heel.

THE PADUCAH EVENING SUN

at the Fountain Avenue Methodist church yesterday and a splendid program was carried out. Mrs. Herman Karnes was the soloist in the morning and Mrs. Karnes and Miss Clara Beyer sang a duet in the evening.
The orchestra furnished the music.
The Baraca class will hold a business meeting Tuesday evening preparatory to a special service for young men that will be held Sunday, April 10.
The Rev. G. W. Banks may change pulpits for six weeks with the Rev.
R. C. Douglass, Santa Ana, Cal., in July.

North Twelfth.

Easter Sunday was not observed at the North Twelfth Street Baptist church yesterday but the attendance was large as usual. The Rev. J. R.
Clark left this morning to hold a meeting at Dixon, Tenn.

Tenth Street.

Large attendance in all branches was reported from the Tenth Street Christian church yesterday. One addition was received. The regular weekly prayer meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 7:30. Tonight a meeting of the Sunday school teachers and workers will be held at the residence of Mr. J. K. Bondurant.

Third Street.

The attendance at the home coming day service at the Third Street Methodist church yesterday was the best attended service held this year.
Well attended services were also held at Guthrie avenue and Little's chapels.

Grace Church.

Impressive Easter services were conducted at the Grace Episcopal church yesterday by the pastor, Dr.
D. C. Wright, assisted by the Rev. E.
C. McAllister. The Easter offering amounted to $771, while the offering at the children's service in the afternoon was $46, to be used for mission purposes.

The feature of the day's services was the communion and sermon at 10:45 in the morning. Dr. Wright delivered a forceful sermon on the subject of "Immortality and Hope," and afterwards special Easter music was rendered by an augmented choir and orchestra. The soloists were Mrs. Lela Wade Lewis, Miss Calisel, Mrs. Roy O. Gresham and Mr. Elliott Mitchell. The church was taxed to its capacity at this service. The first service was at 6:30 o'clock when communion was taken. Sunday school services were held at 9:30.
At 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon a special children's service was conducted. Master Sanders Kettley was awarded a gold watch as the first prize in the choir boy contest, and Franklin Sutherland won the second prize. This service took the place of the regular evening service.

Broadway Methodist.

A beautiful Easter song service was the feature of the evening hour at the Broadway Methodist church.
Mrs. S. H. Winstead presided at the organ and was ably assisted by the regular choir augmented by several visitors. Two effective Easter anthem were rendered by the full choir. The solos were notable feature of the program. Two were from recent additions to the musical circle of Paducah, whose voices are of unusual timbre and charm. Mrs. Fred Gilliam sang "From Gloom to Glory," and Mrs. Stoddard Robertson gave
"He is Risen." Both were effectively sung. Mrs. Lela Wade Lewis rendered "Easter Day" with much charm, and Mr. Robert Scott's beautiful solo "Come, Jesus Redeemer," was given with expressive power. At the morning hour a class of 20 were received into church membership. Sixteen infants and four adults were baptized.
Dr. Sullivan's sermon was "The Empty Tomb, a Pledge of the Resurrection," and emphasized the power of the Resurrected life. Mrs. Fred Gilliam was the soloist of the morning. The church was prettily decor-

Cumberland Presbyterian.

Two large congregations were reported in attendance at the Cumberland Presbyterian church, corner of Twelfth and Trimble streets. The pastor's sermon was well received by the Sunday morning congregation.
He chose for his subject the resurrextion theme, "False or True Witnesses—Which?" Four additions were made to the church at the close of the morning service. The house was well filled at the evening hour to hear the Rev. Mr. Fooks discuss the subject, "God's Danger Signals in Fruit's Road." The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, palms and cut flowers and presented a delightful appearance. The Rev. Mr.
Fooks will be absent from the city the following Sunday in attendance at the spring session of the Mayfield Presbytery, a full program of which was given in the last issue of this paper.

High School Baseball Season Opens With Game at Metropolis on Saturday.

Wednesday night a conference of officials of the city basketball league will be held for the purpose of determining whether the C. C. and W. basketball team was the victor over the High school team last Tuesday night. The conference was called for tonight, but owing to the fact that some of the captains will be out of the city, it was postponed until Wednesday night. The captains of the Indians, the Light and Power, the Elks and the D. A. D. teams will sit as a committee and vote after the evidence of the officials has been heard. In case of a tie vote Frank Davis, president of the league, will cast the deciding vote. Should the game be decided in High school's favor, it is doubtful if the tie would be played off, as there is not an available place. There is some talk of arranging the game at Cairo should the disputed goal be counted in High school's favor, but this is uncertain, as it would not afford many Paducah fans an opportunity to see the sport.

High School Baseball.
High school's baseball team will open the season next Saturday in Metropolis when the two High school teams will make their first appearance this year on the diamond. Slits or Savage and Burnham probably will be the lineup for High school, while the fielders have not been selected. Regular practice will be held this week in preparation for the game.

About 18 months ago he resigned and accepted the position of foreman of the car department of the Rock Island railroad shops at Little Rock, where he has made many friends. In his new position he will have charge of inspecting the cars all over the system, and the new position is a place well merited and a recognition of his ability. Berry, it is said, was a trespasser and for this reason the settlement was not large and agreed upon to avoid a damage suit.

RESOLUTIONS

ADOPTED UPON THE DEATH OF GEORGE K. LEONARD.

Central Labor Union Adopts Memorial and Drapes Its Charter.

In memory of the late George K. Leonard, a popular Illinois Central machinist and delegate to Central Labor union from the Machinists' union, the members of Central Labor union met Saturday night and passed the following resolutions:

"Central Labor union has been called upon to say the last good-bye to one of the brother members. Sunday, February 27, 1910, George K. Leonard passed to the great beyond after an illness of little more than three weeks. Brother Leonard was 45 years of age and worked at the Illinois Central railroad shops. He was a machinist by trade. He was a man of unusual culture and a thorough and capable workman. For many years he worked in the largest machine shop in the south. He had been a great reader, had a retentive memory and few men possess such a fund of general information and knowledge as did Brother Leonard. Modest to a fault, few knew his real worth. He was serving his first term of the Central Labor union when he was stricken with the dread malady, tuberculosis of the brain. The following resolutions were adopted by the Central Labor union:

"Whereas, The severe affliction has overtaken the members of the Central Labor body in the unexpected death of George K. Leonard, one of the following delegates.

"Whereas, His relations to the body both in a personal and official capacity was such as to commend itself to every member, and, there-

HAY FEVER

Be it resolved that we, as members of Central Labor body place on record our appreciation of all those many qualities of consistency and courage of strength and sympathy which were manifested in his personal character; and,

"Be it further resolved, That we honor him for the deep and devoted Christian character and his love for the church of his choice so that men were influenced for righteousness by his example, and,

"Be it resolved, That we bow submissively to the Providence which has permitted his removal from the ranks of the laborer and the associate of his fellowmen, and,

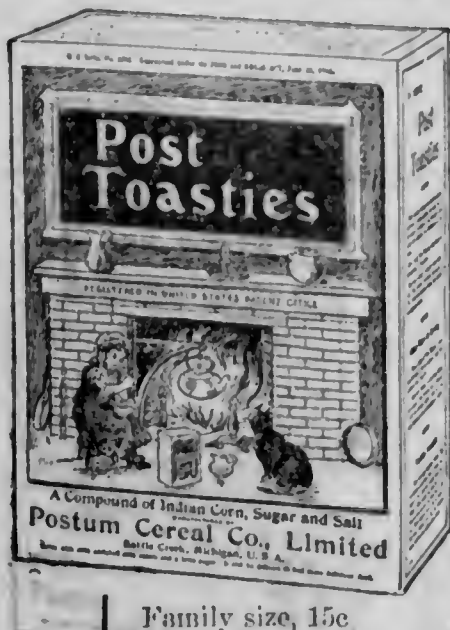

"Be it resolved, That we commend his widow and son so suddenly and strongly afflicted to the consolation of the Father of us all, whose strength alone can support us and whose counsels alone give them adequate consolation, and,

"Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the Central Labor union, and a copy of the same sent to the bereaved family.

"Be it further resolved, That the charter of Central Labor union be draped for 30 days. Adopted: M. H. Danaher, secretary; George Ballows, president."

D. A. R. FACES INTERNAL WAR

INSUBORDINANCE ENTERS WASHINGTON OFFICES.

Dismissal of a Clerk Causes of Rumors—President-General Criticized.

SENDS OUT AN OPEN LETTER.

New York, March 28.—The Daughters of the American Revolution are lining up for the bitterest fight of their lives.

The insurgent spirit has entered into the sacred precincts of the national headquarters of the society—Memorial Hall at Washington—and the recording secretary-general, Mary P. Wilcox, is leading a bitter fight upon the president-general, Julia T. Scott, and the registrar-general, A. G. Draper.

Mary P. Wilcox does not mince matters. In an open letter to the heads of the various chapters throughout the country, she declares that Mrs. Draper is preparing to seize the organization and through the president-general has asked and officers not pleasing to her (Mrs. Draper) summarily discharging or forced to resign.

Clerk's Dismissal Cause.

The insurgents have taken their stand upon the dismissal by Mrs. Scott of Miss Agnes Gerald, a clerk in the employ of the national society who was appointed in April, 1909. Mrs. Scott, in her letter of dismissal, alleged "continued and persistent acts of insubordination as an employee."

Recording Secretary-General Wilcox has taken the stand that Miss Gerald was dismissed because Mrs. Draper had trouble with the girl's mother at the time of the last election.

The ball was opened on Friday, when the president-general informed Miss Gerald that she had been dismissed and at the same time directed her not to report to headquarters again.

Miss Gerald placed the matter in the hands of her attorney, L. Cabell Williamson, who in a letter informed Mrs. Scott that as the young woman could only be dismissed by the board which had appointed her, he had advised the young woman to continue her duties. To this communication Mrs. Scott made no reply, but on March 1 she sent a note to Mary P. Wilcox, in whose department Miss Gerald was employed, informing the recording secretary-general that Miss Gerald was no longer an employee of the society.

Character Above Office.

Mrs. Wilcox at once took up the fight for the clerk in the following plain letter:

"Madame President-General—I have to acknowledge the receipt of your note of this morning officially notifying me that Miss Gerald no longer belongs to the clerical force of the society and is no longer on its payroll.

"Holding that another's character as well as her bread and butter is above whatever official courtesy may be due between you and me, I have to respectfully inform you that I do not recognize your authority to dismiss Miss Gerald, she having been appointed by the national board of management, and therefore will continue her services in my department where they are needed until she shall have been dismissed by the said national board of management or continental congress.

"Before closing this note permit me, in the name of common humanity, to appeal to your motherhood and you to reconsider and recall your action, which will be duly appreciated, not only by the clerk in question, but by every member of the organization. Very respectfully,

"MARY B. WILCOX.

"Recording Secretary-General N. S. D. A. R."

No reply was made to this letter, and on March 19 Mrs. Wilcox returned to the charge with an open letter to the heads of the various chapters through the country, from which extracts follow:

Sends Out Open Letter.

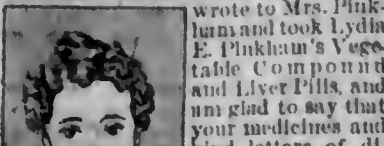

"My Dear Madam—Referring to the recent action against Agnes Gerald, an employee of the National Society, D. A. R., permit me to call your attention to the violation: First, of the letter and spirit of the declaration of independence; second, of the constitution of the United States, article vi, section 2, and by-laws (articles iii and xvi) of the National Society, D. A. R., and fourth, of the divine law (appearing in chapter viii of Zechariah, verse 10), and oppress not the widow nor the fatherless, the stranger nor the poor; and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heads."

"And the following facts: First, That as the appointing power is always the dismissing power, and as Miss Gerald was appointed in April, 1909, to the permanent payroll of the society by the national board of management on recommendation of Mrs. Donald McLean, former president-general, the opinion is held that to only the national board of management or congress belongs the right to dismiss. Therefore the act of the

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her

Knoxville, Iowa.—"I suffered with pains low down on my right side for a year or more and was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am glad to say that your medicines and kind letters of directions have done more for me than anything else and I had the best physicians here. I can do my work and rest well at night. I believe there is nothing like the Pinkham remedies."

Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D. No. 3, Knoxville, Iowa.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, dizziness, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it is free and always helpful.

president-general, Mrs. Matthew T. Scott, in attempting to dismiss Miss Gerald, was illegal and it allowed to stand would establish a most dangerous precedent.

"Second—That the alleged insubordination was not to the president-general, but to Mrs. Amos T. Draper, a clerk on the payroll of the society. That this act is the culmination of trouble between Mrs. Draper and Mrs. Gerald, mother of the clerk, which arose at the time of the election of the former as registrar general.

"That a relentless persecution has been worked against this young girl since the close of the congress of 1909 by three members of the district D. A. R. It is clear that in the minds of the daughters in Washington that the illegal action of the president-general was prompted by Mrs. Draper and if allowed to stand will only be the beginning, to be followed by other acts which will practically dismiss everyone not agreeable to the latter individual.

"To intimidate the clerks or provoke them to so-called insubordination, followed by dismissal, to annoy the officers until they are forced to resign, seems to be her well-planned scheme. Along these lines she is preparing to get control of the organization. I have the honor to remain,

"MARY B. WILCOX."

ETNA CRATERS ARE CLOGGED

INTERNAL ACTIVITY OF VOLCANO MUCH STRONGER.

Molten Mass Will Either Force a Passage in a Few Days or Earthquake Will Result

FLOW OF LAVA DIMINISHES

Catania, March 28.—While the quantity of lava from the craters of Mount Etna continues to decrease, the internal activity of the volcano was stronger today than yesterday. Frank A. Perrett, the American volcanologist, believes the decrease in the flow of lava is due to obstructions in the new craters which prevent its flowing freely and that later, either in a few days or perhaps in a week, the molten mass either will force a passage or an earthquake will result.

Mr. Perrett went today from Nicolosi to the Alpine club refuge, which is situated near the craters, and later telegraphed down as follows: "The activity of Etna today is stronger, but the lava is slower. Terrific explosions in the interior of the mountain continue."

Craters in Vesuvius.

Naples, March 27.—Five large new fissures have opened near the central crater of Mount Vesuvius, but the volcano shows no greater activity.

Night On the Mountain.

Woolen Mittens for Midsummer.

Addressing a gathering at Eastbourne in connection with the British Red Cross society, Sir Frederick Treves remarked that at the time of the Boer war the Red Cross organization might be said to have been in a state of absolute chaos. He was with the lady's relief column and his wagon was the twenty-first that entered that town. When he came to unpack the Red Cross hamper, which were of all sizes and shapes, the first was found to be entirely filled with woolen mittens. The temperature at Eastbourne was from 193 to 195 in the shade, and to open a box containing nothing but woolen mittens was a very deplorable thing. Moreover a number of heavy boxes packed with flannel shirts, pajamas and all sorts of things that the soldiers would have been delighted with were delivered at his house in London some months after the war was over.—London Evening Standard.
